THE PEOPLE

Sojourn House, like most non-for-profit organizations, could not have had such a great year without the people behind every donation of time, service, goods, and finances. We firmly believe that we have the best support around - from people that show up at a moment's notice (see photo at the top of the page), to people that schedule a time to serve (see photo below), to people that participate in a 5K race (see photo above this text) - we are grateful for the support.

While individuals have donated time and resources, so have business owners. One such owner stated, "Choosing to partner with Sojourn House was such a simple decision to make both for my business and for the customers we serve. It has been such an incredible and impactful way for us to positively impact our community and the women who live here through our donations! Our business family is all about freedom and we believe that is a right all humans should know and possess - Sojourn House allows us to take what we do each day through both our work and purchases and give it back to helping women be truly set free. This partnership gives mission and purpose to the work we do." Sojourn House is so grateful to the many organizations that make our mission a priority.

THE NUMBERS

There is an enormous amount of work that happens to set-up an organization like ours. It is even a bigger task during a global pandemic. While our board of directors is committed to spending hours to see Sojourn House begin to have residents, we are grateful to everyone that gave even one hour to Sojourn House in 2021. We look forward to partnering with you even more this year.

We know that Sojourn House would not be on the brink of opening our doors if not for the support of our participants in our various fundraising events, businesses and organizations that donated, and grants given. We are especially grateful for those who choose to give monthly. One committed donor stated she signed up for automatic withdraw because this "method is always on time." Sojourn House is thrilled to know so many generous people.
